SR 900

SR 900/Martin Luther King Jr. Way South Corridor Study

The Washington State Department of Transportation seeks community input for a corridor study on State Route 900/Martin Luther King Jr. Way South in Skyway.

Input from residents, business owners, and road users will help shape the vision of the corridor. This study will set the stage to pursue future funding for the design and construction of highway improvements.

Study background

SR 900 between 57th Avenue South and the Renton city limits is a heavily-traveled commuter corridor with an average of 32,000 vehicles each day. This section of highway lacks sidewalks to connect pedestrians between residences and community hubs.

This study will document the community vision for the corridor and strategies to improve operations, safety, and accessibility for all users.
