

Alaskan Way Viaduct and Seawall Replacement Project

Fall 2003

Business Questionnaire Form

The Washington State Department of Transportation, City of Seattle and Federal Highway Administration are working to select and build a replacement option for both the Alaskan Way Viaduct and Seawall. The project team is currently reviewing five alternatives through the environmental process and hopes to have a preferred alternative selected by 2004 and final environmental approval by 2005. Construction is scheduled to begin in 2008.

In order to assist with planning efforts, the project team would like to know more about businesses in the project area. Please take a moment to fill in this questionnaire and return it to the project team (contact information on the back of this sheet). Thank you for taking the time to tell the project about your business.
